Since 1985, Ben Giliberti has been the wine columnist for The Washington Post, in addition to writing regularly for several other wine and travel publications. But it is his column in the Post that has garnered a loyal following for Ben among wine devotees, connoisseurs and neophytes alike. Besides being informative, Ben's intelligent and often humorous writing makes his column a pleasure to read. Definitely a Park friend, Ben has generously donated his time and all the wines for this evening's tasting.

For over 20 years, the Tom Cunningham Orchestra has wowed audiences far and wide with some of the best swing music to be found. Using the original charts from such greats as Count Basie, Benny Goodman and Glenn Miller, the Tom Cunningham Orchestra with featured vocalist Robin Cunningham is a favorite among dancers and listeners alike. The orchestra regularly plays at the Spanish Ballroom, and its list of special performances includes the Smithsonian, the Barns of Wolf Trap, and Blues Alley. Take a look at www.tomcunningham.com for the band's performance schedule.

Although Tuxedo Park Orchestra is making its first appearance at the Spanish Ballroom, the challenge is a worthy one. Bandleader Pete Ostle uses the band's original arrangements to create a rousing set of American music inspired by the small swingin' bands of the late 1940's and early 1950's as well as hot swing, jazz, and blues. Delivering the music that has inspired dancers for the last 50 years, Tuxedo Park has performed at the Kennedy Center, the DC Convention Center, and Baker Park. Visit www.tuxedoparkorchestra.com for a list of future engagements.

The real winner of this evening's Battle of the Bands is sure to be the audience! A delightfully energetic night of dancing to these two multi-talented bands will prove to be a memorable evening for everyone. We hope you'll continue this winning streak by dancing at the Ballroom every chance you get. Visit our dance schedule at www.glenechopark.org.
